RE: REQUEST FOR RECORDS RELATED TO REFERRAL OF POSSIBLE VIOLATIONS OF ETHICS DIRECTIVES

Dear Mr. McInerney:

INTRODUCTION

Empower Oversight Whistleblowers & Research (“Empower Oversight”) is a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational organization, which is dedicated to enhancing independent oversight of government and corporate wrongdoing. It works to help insiders safely and legally report waste, fraud, abuse, corruption, and misconduct to the proper authorities, and seeks to hold those authorities accountable to act on such reports by, among other means, publishing information concerning the same.

BACKGROUND

On May 9, 2022, Empower Oversight referred to the SEC’s Office of the Inspector General (“OIG”) evidence it had obtained indicating that a former high-level Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) official disobeyed clear directives from the SEC’s Ethics Office. The full referral is attached as Exhibit A and is incorporated into this request by reference. (The referral is summarized briefly below, but please refer to Exhibit A for the full basis of Empower Oversight’s request.)

It had been publicly reported that William Hinman worked as the Director of the Division of Corporate Finance at the SEC from May 2017 through December of 2020. Previously, Mr. Hinman had been a partner at the law firm Simpson Thacher, which continued to pay millions of dollars to Mr. Hinman while he was employed at the SEC. Further, during the time Mr. Hinman was employed at the SEC, Simpson Thacher reportedly was a member of the Enterprise Ethereum Alliance (“Ethereum”), which describes itself as an “industry organization whose objective is to drive the use of Enterprise Ethereum.” In June 2018 in his capacity as an SEC official, Mr. Hinman gave a speech favoring the Ethereum cryptocurrency, Ether. When Mr.

Hinman departed the SEC in December of 2020, he rejoined Simpson Thacher as a partner. That same month, the SEC filed a lawsuit against one of Ethereum's rivals Ripple Labs, Inc. ("Ripple"). The leader of the SEC's Enforcement Division that brought the suit against Ripple, Marc Berger, left the SEC shortly thereafter, and joined Mr. Hinman as a partner at Simpson Thacher. Exhibit A, pp. 2-3.

Additionally, there are potential concerns regarding former SEC Chairman Jay Clayton. While at the SEC Mr. Clayton publicly made statements favoring Bitcoin, and the SEC's lawsuit against Ripple was filed at the end of his tenure at the SEC. After leaving the SEC, Mr. Clayton reportedly joined a cryptocurrency hedge fund that focuses exclusively on Bitcoin and Ether, but not Ripple's cryptocurrency. Exhibit A, p. 3.

On August 12, 2021, Empower Oversight filed a Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") request seeking records regarding these potential conflicts of interest and any action taken by the SEC to mitigate them. Exhibit A, pp. 3-4. As a result of this request, and litigation in furtherance of it, the SEC produced records showing that its ethics office cautioned Mr. Hinman that he had a direct financial interest with Simpson Thacher, and thus, he had to recuse himself from any matters that would affect the firm. The SEC Ethics Office also provided guidance for Mr. Hinman on how to implement these requirements. Exhibit A, pp. 5-8. However, additional records provided by the SEC showed that Mr. Hinman failed to comply with the SEC's directives. Exhibit A, pp. 9-13.

On May 9, 2022, Empower Oversight referred this evidence of possible ethics violations to the SEC OIG. Specifically, Empower Oversight recommended that the SEC OIG conduct a comprehensive review of these circumstances to:

- (1) Understand the degree to which the conflict involving this former official exacerbated the perception that the SEC's enforcement actions have selectively targeted some cryptocurrencies while giving others a free pass;
- (2) Explain to the public how the SEC's Ethics Office failed to effectively ensure compliance with its clear directives; and
- (3) Evaluate the SEC's policies and procedures to identify ways to more effectively monitor compliance with ethics guidance.

Exhibit A, pp. 1-2.

Reportedly, some time between May 2022 and July 26, 2022, Simpson Thacher ceased its membership in Ethereum.¹

RECORDS REQUEST

Empower Oversight respectfully requests, pursuant to the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. § 552:

- (1) All documents or communications exchanged between SEC officials referencing Empower Oversight's May 9, 2022 referral to the SEC OIG.

¹ Mr. Huber (@Leerzeit) Twitter (Jul. 26, 2022, 9:23 AM) available at <https://twitter.com/Leerzeit/status/1551936271068561409/photo/1> (last visited May 2, 2023); EEA-Members, ENTER. ETHEREUM ALL., available at <https://entethalliance.org/eea-members/> (last visited May 2, 2023).

- (2) All documents or communications between any SEC representative and any individual or entity outside of the SEC referencing Empower Oversight's May 9, 2022 referral to the SEC OIG.
- (3) All documents or communications exchanged between SEC FOIA officials and SEC officials that reference any of the following matters: (a) Empower Oversight v. SEC, No. 1:23-cv-0095 (E.D. Va.), and the FOIA requests associated with that litigation; (b) Empower Oversight v. SEC, No. 23-cv-1335 (D.D.C.), and the FOIA requests associated with that litigation; and (c) SEC v. Ripple Labs, Inc., No. 1:20-cv-10832 (S.D.N.Y.). For the purposes of this request, Empower Oversight does not request communications between SEC attorneys and DOJ attorneys that are protected by the attorney-client privilege or work product doctrine. Empower Oversight also does not request copies of any draft filings from the cited cases.
- (4) All documents or communications exchanged between any SEC official and any individual or entity outside of the federal government that reference any of the following matters: (a) Empower Oversight v. SEC, No. 1:23-cv-0095 (E.D. Va.), and the FOIA requests associated with that litigation; (b) Empower Oversight v. SEC, No. 23-cv-1335 (D.D.C.), and the FOIA requests associated with that litigation; and (c) SEC v. Ripple Labs, Inc., No. 1:20-cv-10832 (S.D.N.Y.).
- (5) All communications exchanged between SEC officials referencing William Hinman, Marc Berger, or Jay Clayton and any potential conflict of interest related to their association with Simpson Thacher, Bitcoin, the Enterprise Ethereum Alliance, Ether, Ripple, One River Asset Management, or XRP.
- (6) All documents or communications between any SEC representative and any individual or entity outside of the SEC referencing William Hinman, Marc Berger, or Jay Clayton and any potential conflict of interest related to their association with Simpson Thacher, Bitcoin, the Enterprise Ethereum Alliance, Ether, Ripple, One River Asset Management, or XRP.

Empower Oversight provided to the SEC OIG evidence that raised serious questions about the ability of the SEC to properly manage and mitigate conflicts of interest and threatened to undermine public confidence in the integrity of the SEC. Thus, the willingness and ability of the OIG to act as a genuinely independent watchdog, and concerns about the SEC's handling of possible ethics violations by its officials as a whole, are subjects of public concern. Americans have an interest in learning how the SEC OIG handled this referral and understanding more about how the SEC Ethics Office dealt with the conflicts outlined in the referral. Also, the public has an interest in shedding light on communications between SEC officials and between SEC officials and individuals outside of the federal government about SEC litigation and FOIA requests where concerns about improper coordination or collaboration could occur. Finally, the public has an interest in uncovering additional records that may shed light on the conflicts of interest that were the basis for the Empower Oversight referral, including how SEC officials perceived it.

"[M]atters of substantive law enforcement policy...are properly the subject of public concern..." ACLU v. U.S. Dep't of Justice, 655 F.3d 1, 14 (D.C. Cir. 2011) (quoting U.S. Dep't of Justice v. Reporters Comm. for Freedom of the Press, 489 U.S. 749, 766 n. 18 (1989)). Furthermore, since these allegations have been publicly reported, see Exhibit A passim, former SEC officials have limited privacy concerns in records about any OIG or other SEC inquiry into the evidence referred to it by Empower Oversight.

RE: REFERRAL OF EVIDENCE OF VIOLATIONS OF ETHICS DIRECTIVES

Dear Ms. Sharek:

Empower Oversight Whistleblowers & Research (“Empower Oversight”) is a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational organization, which is dedicated to enhancing independent oversight of government and corporate wrongdoing. It works to help insiders safely and legally report waste, fraud, abuse, corruption, and misconduct to the proper authorities, and seeks to hold those authorities accountable to act on such reports by, among other means, publishing information concerning the same.

Empower Oversight has obtained evidence that a former high-level Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) official disobeyed clear directives from the SEC’s Ethics Office. The directives were intended to ensure that the official avoided conflicts involving his direct financial interest in his former employer. The evidence—including documents the SEC produced in connection with Empower Oversight’s request under the Freedom of Information Act (“FOIA”)¹—establishes that the SEC’s Ethics Office’s guidance was ignored, and the resulting financial conflicts have predictably undermined the public’s perception that the SEC’s enforcement actions are fair and objective, particularly with regard to cryptocurrencies.

This letter refers the evidence disclosed regarding the conflicts and the apparent failure to properly mitigate them to the SEC’s Office of Inspector General (“SEC-OIG”) for further investigation and evaluation. This information raises serious questions about the ability of the SEC to properly manage and mitigate such conflicts, and the circumstances they describe threatens to undermine public confidence in the integrity of the SEC.

However, by virtue of its mission to be an independent watchdog, the SEC-OIG has an opportunity to help the restore some measure of public trust by conducting a thorough and unflinching review of this matter. The SEC-OIG should conduct a comprehensive review of these circumstances in order to:

- (1) Understand the degree to which the conflict involving this former official exacerbated the perception that the SEC's enforcement actions have selectively targeted some cryptocurrencies while giving others a free pass;
- (2) Explain to the public how the SEC's Ethics Office failed to effectively ensure compliance with its clear directives; and
- (3) Evaluate the SEC's policies and procedures to identify ways to more effectively monitor compliance with ethics guidance

Directives without compliance monitoring and sanctions for noncompliance are not meaningful; they are window dressings. A comprehensive SEC-OIG report could increase transparency and enhance public trust by recommending meaningful improvements to the ethics policies and procedures at the SEC.

BACKGROUND

A. Circumstances from Which Empower Oversight's FOIA Request Arose

It has been publicly reported that William Hinman worked as the Director of the Division of Corporate Finance at the SEC from May 2017 through December of 2020.² Previously, Mr. Hinman had been a partner at the law firm Simpson Thacher.³ He reportedly continued to receive millions of dollars from the firm while he was employed at the SEC.⁴ Further, Simpson Thacher reportedly is a member of the Enterprise Ethereum Alliance ("Ethereum"), which describes itself as an "industry organization whose objective is to drive the use of Enterprise Ethereum."⁵

In a June 2018 speech in his capacity as an SEC official, Mr. Hinman declared publicly that the Ethereum cryptocurrency, Ether, is not a security, stating that "based on my understanding of the present state of Ether, the Ethereum network and its decentralized structure, current offers and sales of Ether are not securities transactions."⁶ After his declaration, Ether's value rose significantly.⁷

When Mr. Hinman departed the SEC in December of 2020, he rejoined Simpson Thacher as a partner.⁸ That same month, the SEC filed a lawsuit against one of Ethereum's rivals, Ripple Labs, Inc. ("Ripple"), alleging that its XRP cryptocurrency was a security, such that the company's offering and sales of XRP had been in violation of Federal securities laws.⁹ The value of XRP fell 25% immediately after the announcement of the SEC's lawsuit.¹⁰ Of note, the leader of the SEC's Enforcement Division that brought the suit against Ripple, Marc Berger, left the SEC shortly thereafter, and joined Mr. Hinman as a partner at Simpson Thacher.¹¹

Additionally, there are potential concerns regarding former SEC Chairman Jay Clayton. While at the SEC, Mr. Clayton publicly stated that Bitcoin is not a security,¹² and the value of Bitcoin rose.¹³ Moreover, the SEC's lawsuit against Ripple was filed at the end of Mr. Clayton's tenure there. Mr. Clayton exited at the same time as Mr. Hinman, in December 2020. Fewer than four months later, Mr. Clayton reportedly joined One River Asset Management, a cryptocurrency hedge fund that focuses exclusively on Bitcoin and Ether—not XRP.¹⁴

B. Empower Oversight's August 12, 2021, FOIA Request

To promote the public's interest in understanding (1) the facts and circumstances surrounding Messrs. Hinman, Berger, and Clayton's past and future private sector employment, (2) whether any such relationships presented potential conflicts or public integrity concerns related to their official actions at the SEC, and (3) whether, how, and to what extent the SEC and its ethics officials properly mitigated any such issues, Empower Oversight submitted a FOIA request to the SEC on August 12, 2021.¹⁵ The FOIA request seeks eight categories of records, as follows:

1. All records relating to communications from May of 2017 through December of 2020 between William Hinman and any personnel from Simpson Thacher, including calendar entries, notes, or emails between Mr. Hinman and any email address from the domain "@stblaw.com";

On August 13, 2021, the SEC—via eight separate letters corresponding to each of the eight items of Empower Oversight’s FOIA request (i.e., items “1” through “8” set forth above)—acknowledged receipt of Empower Oversight’s request; assigned unique tracking numbers to each of the eight items of the request (i.e., SEC FOIA Request Numbers: 21-02531-FOIA through 21-02538-FOIA, respectively); and advised that one or more FOIA Research Specialist(s) would be assigned to address the request.¹⁶

Since August 13th, Empower Oversight’s FOIA request has been the subject of FOIA appeals, litigation before the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia,¹⁷ and—most pertinent to this referral—the production of records in response to SEC FOIA Request Numbers 21-02531-FOIA and 21-02533-FOIA.

The SEC’s February 22, 2022, “amended¹⁸ and partial response” to FOIA Request Number 21-02531-FOIA forwarded 1,053 pages of responsive records (hereinafter “Hinman & Simpson Thacher Emails”) that the SEC had redacted allegedly pursuant to FOIA Exemption b(6), 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6), which protects information the release of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.¹⁹ FOIA Request Number 21-02531-FOIA seeks:

All records relating to communications from May of 2017 through December of 2020 between William Hinman and any personnel from Simpson Thacher, including calendar entries, notes, or emails between Mr. Hinman and any email address from the domain “@stblaw.com.”

The SEC’s March 25, 2021, “partial response” to FOIA Request Number 21-02533-FOIA forwarded 196 pages of responsive records (hereinafter “Hinman & Ethics Office Emails”) that the SEC had redacted allegedly pursuant to FOIA Exemption b(6) and FOIA Exemption b(5), 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(5), which protects inter-agency and intra-agency information that would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency.²⁰ FOIA Request Number 21-02533-FOIA seeks:

All records relating to communications, including calendar entries, notes or emails between Mr. Hinman and any personnel in the SEC’s Office of the Ethics Counsel regarding Mr. Hinman’s continued payments from Simpson Thacher while employed at SEC, his potential recusals or conflicts related to his prior or future employment at Simpson Thacher, as well as his discussions and negotiations with Simpson Thacher regarding rejoining the firm.

THE SEC ETHICS OFFICE’S DIRECTIONS TO MR. HINMAN

Included among the records that the SEC produced in response to FOIA Request Number 21-02533-FOIA are emails that show that the SEC’s Ethics Office²¹ cautioned Mr. Hinman that ¹⁸ On December 10, 2021, the SEC issued a false “no records” response to SEC Request Numbers 21-02531-FOIA.

¹⁹ The SEC’s February 22, 2022, amended partial response to FOIA Request Number 21-02531-FOIA is attached as Exhibit 3. The 1,053 pages of records forwarded by the SEC’s February 22nd correspondence is available at <https://www.documentcloud.org/documents/21274400-hinman-simpson-thacher-emails-21822>.

²⁰ The SEC’s March 25, 2022, partial response to FOIA Request Number 21-02533-FOIA is attached as Exhibit 4. The 196 pages of records forwarded by the SEC’s March 25th correspondence is available at <https://empowr.us/wp-content/uploads/2022/04/2022-03-25-SEC-Responsive-Records-compressed.pdf>.

²¹ According to the SEC, its Ethics Office, which is subject to the guidance and oversight of the U.S. Office of Government Ethics, is responsible for advising and instructing all SEC employees about laws and regulations governing their personal and financial conflicts of interest, securities holdings and transactions, gifts, seeking and negotiating other employment, outside activities, financial disclosure, and post-employment restrictions. See, SEC, Office of the Ethics Counsel: About the Office (Modified January 7, 2020), available at <https://www.sec.gov/page/ethicssectionlanding> (last accessed on May 5, 2022); see also, Office of Government Ethics, What We Do (Undated), available at https://www.oge.gov/web/oge.nsf/about_what-we-do (last accessed on May 5, 2022).

Criminal laws governing SEC employees’ financial conflicts of interest include 18 U.S.C. §§ 203 and 208. In relevant part, Section 203(a) provides:

Whoever, otherwise than as provided by law for the proper discharge of official duties, directly or indirectly . . . demands, seeks, receives, accepts, or agrees to receive or accept any compensation for any representational services, as agent or attorney or otherwise, rendered or to be rendered either personally or by another . . . at a time when such person is an

he had a direct financial interest in Simpson Thacher, and thus, he must recuse himself from any matters that would affect the firm. Lest Mr. Hinman may have misunderstood the position of the Ethics Office, it explicitly told him, per the documents, not to be in any contact with Simpson Thacher personnel for any reason.²²

Specifically, the records include an April 28, 2017, email containing “initial guidance” from the SEC’s Ethics Office. The email provides that Mr. Hinman’s receipt of retirement benefits from Simpson Thacher that are calculated “based on the profits” of the firm would mean that he “could not participate in any SEC particular matters that would directly” benefit the firm because the “future interest is enough to give you a full financial interest in the firm,” as follows:

officer or employee or Federal judge of the United States in the executive, legislative, or judicial branch of the Government, or in any agency of the United States, in relation to any proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other determination, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest, or other particular matter in which the United States is a party or has a direct and substantial interest, before any department, agency, court, court-martial, officer, or any civil, military, or naval commission . . . shall be subject to the penalties set forth in section 216 of this title.

Whereas, Section 208(a), in relevant part, provides:

. . . [W]hoever, being an officer or employee of the executive branch of the United States Government . . . participates personally and substantially as a Government officer or employee, through decision, approval, disapproval, recommendation, the rendering of advice, investigation, or otherwise, in a judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other determination, contract, claim, controversy, charge, accusation, arrest, or other particular matter in which, to his knowledge, he, his spouse, minor child, general partner, organization in which he is serving as officer, director, trustee, general partner or employee, or any person or organization with whom he is negotiating or has any arrangement concerning prospective employment, has a financial interest . . . [s]hall be subject to the penalties set forth in section 216 of this title.

²² It is not clear from the records that the SEC produced whether Mr. Hinman fully disclosed Simpson Thacher’s role in Ethereum to the SEC’s ethics officials. Hence, it also is not clear whether the ethics officials would have approved his meetings with Ethereum personnel or his official comments about Ether had they been fully apprised of Simpson Thacher’s role in Ethereum. Bill, we have received some initial guidance from OGE and they posed some follow up questions (see below).

Of particular note, OGE advised that if the proposal from the firm would fix the payments only during your term of government service (i.e., if you would return to receiving retirement benefits that are in part calculated based on the profits of the firm at the conclusion of your government service), you would continue to have a financial interest in the firm's profitability while you are in government. This means you could not participate in any SEC particular matters that would directly and predictably affect the firm under 18 USC 208. In other words the future interest is enough to give you a full financial interest in the firm. Is it possible for them to fix it for not just the tenure of your government service but permanently?

For the 203 problem - they indicated that the fixed payment proposal would cure the problem of 18 USC 203 (sharing in profits related to representational activities before the government). However, you and the firm should both be aware that after you leave government service, you will continue to be prohibited from sharing in any profits the firm receives for representing clients before the government during the term of your government service, even if those payments are made once you are no longer a federal employee.

OGE was not conclusive on (b) (5) and asked that we get additional information about the following:

(b) (5)

On May 12, 2017, the SEC's Ethics Office provided Mr. Hinman with a draft memorandum, which was to be issued under his own name, that detailed the "screening arrangement I have implemented to ensure that I comply with my obligation to recuse myself from certain matters with which I have a financial interest, or a personal or business relationship."²³ The arrangement described in the document stated that Mr. Hinman had instructed an employee, Tamara Brightwell, "to screen all SEC matters directed to my attention that involve outside entities or that require my participation, to determine if they involve any of the entities or organizations listed above,” referring to a list of entities that included Simpson Thacher.²⁴

Later, on January 24, 2018, the SEC’s Ethics Office alleviated any grounds for misunderstanding its position, and advised Mr. Hinman not to have “any meetings with [his] old firm,” even if Simpson Thacher is merely a member of a group with whom he meets, as follows:

EVIDENCE OF MR. HINMAN’S NONCOMPLIANCE WITH THE SEC’S DIRECTIVES

Contrary to the explicit instructions from the SEC’s Ethics Office, the records that the SEC produced in response to FOIA Request Number 21-02531-FOIA tend to show that Mr. Hinman failed to disclose Simpson Thacher’s—and by extension his—direct financial interest in Ethereum during his speech on Ether. Moreover, Mr. Hinman—who annually received more than $1.5 million in retirement benefits from Simpson Thacher²⁵—had repeated contact with the law firm’s personnel, including the referral of a business prospect. The records do not, however, reveal efforts by Mr. Hinman to dissuade his former colleagues from contacting him, nor do they demonstrate that the SEC’s Ethics Office monitored his compliance with its directives.²⁶

A. Failure to Disclosure Direct Financial Interest

Mr. Hinman’s June 14, 2018, speech declaring that Ether is not a security failed to disclose to the public his direct financial interest in a member of Ethereum, Simpson Thacher. Additionally, no such disclosure has occurred subsequently in his public comments related to the speech, nor in the archived text of his speech on the SEC’s website.²⁷ Furthermore, nowhere have we found in the emails or documents produced by the SEC to date any evidence that the directives regarding the screening arrangement for all matters before Mr. Hinman to ensure compliance with ethics rules²⁸ were followed in relation to his June 2018 speech.

This failure to disclose his financial interest raises serious questions about whether Mr. Hinman also failed to submit his June 2018 speech—which was reportedly borrowed from materials provided to the SEC by Ethereum advocates²⁹—to the screening process that was explicitly laid out by the SEC’s Ethics Office in May 2017 or whether ethics officials failed to identify and take steps to mitigate the conflict presented by a speech about Ether in light of Mr. Hinman’s direct financial interest in a member of the Ethereum alliance.

B. Business Referral

Regarding the referral of a business prospect to Simpson Thacher, on July 14, 2017, at 11:12 AM, Jonathon Wiggins, who introduced himself as the Senior Recruiting Consultant for IMS ExpertServices, which locates and engages expert consultants on behalf of law firms, sent Mr. Hinman an email that states:

I was referred to you by Patrick Daugherty. . . .

I am seeking an expert in investment banking and the IPO process in China.

I'm hoping you might be able to offer a referral. Patrick said you were involved in the Alibaba IPO.

Thank you in advance for your time and consideration.³⁰

On the same day at 1:23 PM, Mr. Hinman referred Mr. Wiggins solely to his former Simpson Thacher partner, Dan Fertig, as follows:

You may want to ask Dan Fertig, a Simpson Thacher partner in Hong Kong for your referral. Given my current position at the SEC, I am not well placed to provide you the best names.³¹

Additionally, Mr. Hinman sent a courtesy copy of his email to Mr. Fertig.³²

Less than two hours later, at 3:49 AM (July 15, 2017), Mr. Fertig sent an email to Mr. Wiggins, with a courtesy copy to Mr. Hinman, that states:

Jonathan,

I am happy to discuss or provide relevant referrals with you. I may need a bit more detail on what you are looking for. I will email you again separately.

Bill, Thank you for thinking of me. Hope you are well.

Best regards,

Dan³³

Thus, in the middle of a workday, on his SEC-supplied email account, Mr. Hinman wasted no time conveying a business prospect, which could “directly and predictably affect the firm,” to Simpson Thacher. He received an unsolicited request for a business referral from someone seeking expert advice in investment banking and the IPO process in China, who advised that he had been referred to Mr. Hinman because of his involvement in the Alibaba IPO. About two hours later, Mr. Hinman referred the business prospect to his former partner at Simpson Thacher, Mr. Fertig. According to Simpson Thacher, Mr. Fertig has substantial investment banking experience, and he was involved with both the Alibaba and Focus Media IPOs.³⁴ Mr. Hinman, thus, likely knew that he was referring the business prospect to someone with the precise experience that the prospect requested, and perhaps he veiled his failure to name alternative/competing candidates—including ones employed by firms other than Simpson Thacher, which paid him more than $1.5 million annually in retirement benefits—with the statement “[g]iven my current position at the SEC, I am not well placed to provide you the best names.”³⁵

³⁵ In contrast to his using official resources and thus potentially creating the appearance that his referral was an authorized activity, he did not respectfully decline to offer a referral. Further—without suggesting or implying that doing so would modify the ethical impact of his referral—

Mr. Hinman's use of the SEC's resources to refer the potential business prospect to Simpson Thacher provided the SEC's Ethics Office with an opportunity to monitor his compliance with its directives. Consequently, it could be useful for the SEC-OIG to compile and review all communications that Mr. Hinman may have had with SEC ethics officials in July of 2017, as well as all records that the Ethics Office created, if any, in connection with the monitoring of his activities.

C. Miscellaneous Contacts

Additionally, Mr. Hinman was beset by contacts from his former colleagues at Simpson Thacher. Discounting invitations for various lunches and dinners, his former colleagues at the law firm:

- Encouraged him to modify SEC policy, raising the SEC's $2,000 investment threshold for shareholders seeking to include a proposal on a public company's proxy statement,³⁶ and
- Invited him (and his principal, SEC's then Chairman Jay Clayton) to exclusive conferences, which would be attended by current and potential clients of his former law firm.

Specifically, after allegedly encountering Mr. Hinman on May 15, 2017, Simpson Thacher Associate Yafit Cohn sent him an email explaining that she and A.J. Kess—a Simpson Thacher partner, whom she referred to as "AJ" in her email—had authored an opinion editorial in 2015 that discussed "why the $2,000 threshold for submitting shareholder proposals is abysmally low and . . . the potential consequences, over the long term, of not increasing that threshold."³⁷ Ms. Cohn attached her editorial to her email.³⁸ The emails produced by the SEC do not include a response from Mr. Hinman to Ms. Cohn's email.

On the other hand, the documents produced by the SEC show Mr. Hinman responding favorably to invitations to conferences that do not appear to have been open to a large number of people with a diversity of views. Rather, they appear to have been insular affairs—sponsored in part by Simpson Thacher personnel—designed to provide insiders with special access to high-level SEC officials and thereby burnish the law firm's reputation among regulated entities. For example, on May 24, 2017, Kevin Kennedy invited Mr. Hinman and "maybe a few other senior folks" to come "out to the West Coast" to speak at a "conference" sponsored by the Berkeley Center for Law Business and the Economy ("BCLBE").³⁹ About a week later, Mr. Kennedy elaborated on his vision for the "conference":

My vision for this is that this would be an invitation only, round table with senior members of the Staff (hopefully including you) and the leaders of the local megahe did not recommend additional qualified candidates associated with firms in which he did not hold a financial interest; disclaim the SEC's knowledge, agreement, or consent to his endorsement; nor divert the communication to his personal email resources.

unicorns (Uber, Airbnb, Palantir, etc.). We'd ask them to share their views on capital raising and what, if any, regulatory concerns are preventing them from going public. The Staff, in turn, could speak about its regulatory priorities and initiatives under the new administration. It could be a way for the two sides to speak to each other directly and hopefully provide a meaningful amount of feedback both sides could use.

I think this could be a really interesting and unique event, that really couldn't be replicated in NY, San Diego or any of the other major securities conferences. We'd be offering direct access to some of the companies that I think will need to be the targets of any capital formation projects you and Jay develop.^{40, 41}

Mr. Hinman replied that Mr. Kennedy's vision sounded "like something we would want to do," and committed to get back to him with "more thoughts soon."⁴² Later, he advised that he had assigned the matter to a subordinate (and then to another subordinate) to coordinate.⁴³

Similarly, on September 5, 2017, Joshua Bonnie⁴⁴ asked Mr. Hinman whether he would be "willing to have dinner with the Ad Hoc group up in NY?"⁴⁵ He added:

I have been asked to extend the invitation. As you may (or may not!) recall we generally meet on the first Monday evening of each month (although this month it was tonight). So, for the rest of the year, we are slated for October 2, November 6 and December 4.⁴⁶

Mr. Hinman replied the next day that "[b]oth Jay [Clayton] and I would like to go to an Ad Hoc dinner," but asked about dates in 2018.⁴⁷ Mr. Bonnie responded that the first several meetings in 2018 would be on January 8, February 5, March 5, and April 2,⁴⁸ and then later in September he inquired whether Mr. Hinman had decided on a potential date in 2018.⁴⁹

On November 6, 2017, Mr. Bonnie reprised his inquiry about Mr. Hinman's preferences among the 2018 dates, and Mr. Hinman replied that he was "[c]hecking with the boss on Ad Hoc ⁴¹ Later, Mr. Kennedy advised that BCLBE had secured a meeting space at "the University Club at Memorial Stadium, which is pretty spectacular," that the CFO's of Airbnb and DropBox had already confirmed their attendance, and that he reckoned that "just about everyone" that BCLBE invites will "send a senior executive" to the event. See, Id at p. 41.

dates.”⁵⁰ To which Mr. Bonnie replied, “[Let me know] what the Boss says about the field trip to the Links Club next year.”^{51, 52}

On December 5, 2017, Mr. Hinman indicated that his preference for a 2018 date to meet with the Ad Hoc group would be April 2.⁵³ Mr. Bonnie responded:

I don’t think I am going out on a limb by saying that we will all be honored to have you and Jay on April 2. Let[’]s book it! Thank you for getting back to me. Will let the rest of the gang know.⁵⁴

On March 7, 2018, Mr. Bonnie advised that he had heard that Mr. Hinman was encountering an administrative problem connected with his attendance at the Ad Hoc group meeting, and inquired whether the problem involved attendance of Simpson Thacher personnel at the meeting.⁵⁵ Mr. Hinman confirmed what Mr. Bonnie had heard, explaining that the SEC’s ethics officials “were resisting [his] attending if Simpson Thacher was going to be present.”⁵⁶ He added, “I don’t like the idea of Simpson Thacher having to miss the meeting because of me but we can talk about it.”⁵⁷ And, Mr. Bonnie asked whether the SEC’s ethics officials also had problems with former Chairman Clayton’s attendance if attorneys from Sullivan & Cromwell—where Chairman Clayton had been a partner—were present.⁵⁸

Mr. Bonnie subsequently offered for Simpson Thacher personnel to forgo the meeting to accommodate Messrs. Hinman and Clayton’s attendance,⁵⁹ and Mr. Hinman agreed to his proposal.⁶⁰ And, on the morning of April 2, 2018, Mr. Hinman confirmed to Mr. Bonnie that he would be attending the meeting of the Ad Hoc group that evening.⁶¹

In light of this evidence, it is clear that Mr. Hinman did not faithfully follow the guidance and directives of the SEC’s Ethics Office concerning communications and contacts with his former law firm at a time when he still had a direct financial interest in that firm. Accordingly, it is essential that the SEC-OIG independently study these facts and circumstances in order

Dear FOIA Officer:

Introduction

Empower Oversight Whistleblowers & Research (“Empower Oversight”) is a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational organization dedicated to enhancing independent oversight of government and corporate wrongdoing. We work to help insiders safely and legally report waste, fraud, abuse, corruption, and misconduct to the proper authorities, and seek to hold those authorities accountable to act on those reports by, among other means, publishing information to inform the public.

Background

We write today seeking information regarding the appearance of conflicts of interest by former high-level officials at the SEC relating to cryptocurrencies. It is in the public’s interest that the government’s emerging regulatory approach to cryptocurrencies is based on objective legal principles, without the appearance that conflicted SEC officials may be picking cryptocurrency winners and losers based on personal financial interests. The way in which these former SEC officials declared whether particular cryptocurrencies were securities—and thus subject to SEC regulation—raises public integrity concerns.

As publicly reported, Mr. William Hinman worked as the Director of the Division of Corporate Finance at the SEC from May 2017 through December of 2020, having previously been a partner at the law firm Simpson Thacher.¹ Mr. Hinman reportedly continued to receive millions of dollars from Simpson Thacher while employed at the

SEC.² Notably, Simpson Thacher is a member of the Enterprise Ethereum Alliance, an “industry organization whose objective is to drive the use of Enterprise Ethereum.”³ In a June 2018 speech in his official capacity as an SEC official, Mr. Hinman declared that the Ethereum cryptocurrency, Ether, was not a security, stating that “based on my understanding of the present state of Ether, the Ethereum network and its decentralized structure, current offers and sales of Ether are not securities transactions.”⁴ After his declaration, Ether’s value then rose significantly.⁵ When Mr. Hinman departed the SEC in December of 2020, he rejoined Simpson Thacher as a partner.⁶

That same month, the SEC filed a lawsuit against one of Ethereum’s rivals, Ripple, alleging that its XRP cryptocurrency was a security, such that the company’s offering and sales of XRP had been in violation of federal securities laws.⁷ The value of XRP fell 25% immediately after the announcement of the SEC lawsuit.⁸ Of note, the leader of the SEC’s Enforcement Division that brought the suit, Marc Berger, then left the SEC shortly thereafter, joining Mr. Hinman as a partner at Simpson Thacher.⁹

Additionally, there are potential concerns regarding former SEC Chairman Jay Clayton. As with Mr. Hinman and Ether, while at the SEC, Mr. Clayton publicly stated that Bitcoin was not a security,¹⁰ and the value of Bitcoin rose.¹¹ The SEC’s lawsuit against Ripple was filed at the end of Mr. Clayton’s tenure there. Shortly after he left, he reportedly joined One River Asset Management, a cryptocurrency hedge fund that focuses exclusively on Bitcoin and Ether—not XRP.¹²

The SEC’s handling of cryptocurrency issues is of significant public importance, and these appearances of conflicts of interest raise substantial issues. Transparency from the SEC is the only way to ensure accountability to the public. In light of this, we are filing this FOIA request to seek the facts.

ADDENDUM

For further assistance you can contact a SEC FOIA Public Liaison by calling (202) 551-7900 or visiting <https://www.sec.gov/oso/help/foia-contact.html>.

SEC FOIA Public Liaisons are supervisory staff within the Office of FOIA Services. They can assist FOIA requesters with general questions or concerns about the SEC's FOIA process or about the processing of their specific request.

In addition, you may also contact the Office of Government Information Services (OGIS) at the National Archives and Records Administration to inquire about the FOIA dispute resolution services it offers. OGIS can be reached at 1-877-684-6448 or via e-mail at ogis@nara.gov. Information concerning services offered by OGIS can be found at their website at Archives.gov. Note that contacting the FOIA Public Liaison or OGIS does not stop the 90-day appeal clock and is not a substitute for filing an administrative appeal.
